Investor guide

What does MyFolio Index invest in?

Our experts invest your chosen fund in a range of Aberdeen Investments tracker funds which generally aim to replicate the performance of an index such as the FTSE All Share¹ or the S&P 500². When investing in these underlying funds, they combine defensive and growth asset classes. Defensive assets are usually seen as less risky, including funds that typically hold investments such as cash and bonds. Meanwhile, growth assets are usually seen as more risky, including funds that typically hold investments such as company shares and property³. By combining different types of investment, we believe we can achieve the best possible return for each risk level.

Defensive

Growth

As you move up the risk levels, you would typically expect to see a higher proportion invested in growth assets and less in defensive assets.

Key risks

The value of investments and the income from them can fall and investors may get back less than the amount invested.

The fund invests in securities which are subject to the risk that the issuer may default on interest or capital payments.

The fund price can go up or down daily for a variety of reasons including changes in interest rates, inflation expectations or the perceived credit quality of individual countries or securities.

The fund invests in equity and equity related securities. These are sensitive to variations in the stock markets which can be volatile and change substantially in short periods of time.

The fund invests in emerging market equities and / or bonds. Investing in emerging markets involves a greater risk of loss than investing in more developed markets due to, among other factors, greater political, tax, economic, foreign exchange, liquidity and regulatory risks.

The fund may hold money-market instruments, the value of which may be subject to adverse movements in extreme market conditions.

The use of derivatives carries the risk of reduced liquidity, substantial loss and increased volatility in adverse market conditions, such as a failure amongst market participants. The use of derivatives may result in the fund being leveraged (where market exposure and thus the potential for loss by the fund exceeds the amount it has invested) and in these market conditions the effect of leverage will be to magnify losses.

The fund invests in high yielding bonds which carry a greater risk of default than those with lower yields.
