Item 1. Introduction

Aberdeen Fund Distributors LLC ("AFD") is registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission as a broker-dealer and is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). AFD is a wholly-owned subsidiary of abrdn Inc. and a member of Aberdeen Group plc ("Aberdeen"). AFD acts as a placement agent for private funds managed by affiliated investment advisers and as a distributor for Aberdeen-managed mutual funds.

Brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ and it is important for you to understand these differences. Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

Item 2. Relationships and Services

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

AFD is a limited purpose broker-dealer that acts as a placement agent solely for offering interests in affiliated private funds to institutional investors and individuals meeting certain investor qualifications, depending on the fund. You will not have a brokerage account with us and we will not monitor your investments. You will make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of any fund. Our broker-dealer does not offer recommendations, including with regard to any transaction, investment strategy, security or account.

Conversation Starter – Ask your financial professional:

Given my financial situation, should I choose a brokerage service? Why or why not?
How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Item 3. Fees, Costs, Conflicts, and Standard of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

You will not pay fees or costs for our broker-dealer's services.

Conversation Starter – Ask your financial professional:

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

We have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. We satisfy this duty of care by performing appropriate due diligence and qualifying investors to ensure they are eligible to invest in our affiliated private funds. Our broker-dealer does not provide recommendations and we do not receive fees, commissions or other compensation in connection with the sale and distribution of affiliated private funds. As a distributor of Aberdeen-managed mutual funds ("abrdn Funds"), we receive distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees from the abrdn Funds. At the same time, the way our affiliates make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask about these conflicts. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

We offer placement services for affiliated funds; we do not place investors in non-affiliated funds. Our affiliates receive fees for investment advisory services related to the management and performance of these affiliated funds. Additionally, our financial professionals are employees of Aberdeen and perform services for affiliated entities. Certain AFD registered persons perform investment management functions for our affiliated investment advisers and receive compensation in the form of carried interest. These incentives create conflicts of interest for us. AFD does not actively solicit sales of our mutual funds directly from retail clients. Nonetheless, our receipt of 12b-1 fees means we have a financial incentive in the sale of abrdn Funds.

How do your financial professionals make money?

All AFD registered persons are employed by abrdn Inc. and paid a base salary and a year-end annual bonus. Certain AFD registered persons perform investment management functions for our affiliated investment advisers and receive compensation in the form of carried interest. Individual bonuses are determined by an assessment of personal achievement against defined objectives. Bonus payments and related productivity targets are not tied to the sale of any particular fund or product. The quantum of the payment is a bi-product of the overall performance and prosperity of Aberdeen; the performance of our distribution and sales teams broadly; and the registered person's individual contribution as determined by their respective manager.
