Warnings

- The fund's exposure to a single country market (India), through investment in the foreign fund, entails the risk on economic, political and social changes of such country.
- The fund and the master fund generally do not hedge their currency position thereby expose to higher risk from the currency exchange rate i.e. Baht and US dollar. Additionally, the master fund invests in Indian Rupee. This results in the fund exposed to higher risk from the currency exchange rate i.e. US dollar and Rupee. In the future the Asset Management Company may employ risk management tool to mitigate such risk. For example, in the case where US dollar is tend to weak, the Asset Management Company may enter into the FX derivatives for hedging the currency risk at the higher portion than in the case where US dollar is tend to strong. However, the Asset Management Company may consider to enter into the FX derivatives for hedging the currency risk with less portion or will not hedge in the case where US dollar is likely to increase thereby the fund will still be exposed to higher risk from currency exchange rate. Risk management however comes with transaction costs which may reduce the overall return of the fund.
